National Accreditation Board for Hospitals & Healthcare Providers (NABH) is a constituent board of Quality Council of India, New Delhi, set up to establish and operate accreditation programme for healthcare organizations.

NABH standards are on par with the standards laid down for accreditation of hospitals internationally by ISQua (International Society for Quality in Healthcare) which is comparable with International Accreditation bodies like Joint Commission International (JCI) and Australian Council on Healthcare Standards International (ACHSI).

NABH accreditation is beneficial not only for the hospital , patients and the staff as it helps to create a safe and secure environment . Accreditation results in high quality of care and patient safety. The rights of patients are respected and protected. Patient satisfaction is regularly evaluated.

The staff working in an accredited hospital are a satisfied lot as it provides for continuous learning, good working environment, leadership and above all ownership of clinical processes.
